Modultyp: Nichttechnisches Wahlpflichtfach

Lehrform *: Seminar

Sprache *: Englisch

Modulbeschreibung: (ggf. Link hinterlegen)

This course will give participants the opportunity to take part in formal debates on academic and social issues in the fields of communication, commerce and media. Participants are introduced to the modalities of formal academic debating in the United Kingdom. Videos of such debates are shown and participants follow these with a worksheet in which questions relating to the debate are answered. AI may be used but it must be acknowledged correctly and carefully post-edited.

The worksheets will also give participants the opportunity to refresh their language skills, as linguistic formulations taken from the debates will be explored and parsed for their grammatical, syntactic and semantic content. Participants will then attempt similar use-of-English and vocabulary-acquisition exercises for homework.

Participants then work in groups and hold a similar debate following the same conventions on a similar subject as it pertains to Germany. As active debating on the part of all participants is expected, regular attendance is also a requirement.
