

Kurstitel *Politics and Current Affairs

Allgemeine Informationen

Modultyp: Nichttechnisches Wahlpflichtfach

Lehrform *: Seminar

Sprache *: Englisch

Modulbeschreibung: (ggf. Link hinterlegen)

This course covers contemporary political developments in the German and British media.

Participants hold a presentation on a subject of their choice pertaining to the course content.

Articles are examined and parsed for grammatical correctness, use of English, and vocabulary extension in the form of exercises based on given texts or worksheets accompanying video material. Where necessary, translations are provided. AI searches are permitted but these must be acknowledged and also need to be carefully post-edited.

The reporting of current affairs in the British and German media will be compared and contrasted based on editorial oversight differences, linguistic peculiarities (the synecdoche in English; Konjunktiv I in German, for example) in addition to historically delicate topics (Northern Ireland in the case of British media; Israel in the case of Germany, for example).

The course will also attempt to deal with the issue of fake news and how to deal with it in a rapidly developing digital environment. Presentations held by participants can include these topics and others as long as they are relevant to the course. Regular attendance is required.
